Around Town

□ Last week five Cohasset women opened the doors for business at Sea Heather Antiques on Route 3A. Robbie Broefle, Millie Mitman, Donna O'Connor, Jean Replogle, and Barbara Weisenfluh have been pairing off each day (except Monday) at their new shop and selling their eclectic storeful of antique furniture, accessories, and collectables. When stock gets low, they lug over more new-old pieces from their stores hidden away in barns and garages.

How is it working out in a new business with friends? They say they're having a ball and learning from each other. They will remain open until Dec. 15 when the shop reverts back to H & R Block until spring. Then they'll reopen with replenished stock from more travel and workshops.

□ Two delighted grandparents were discovered boasting at Town Hall this week: Frances Byrnes, an efficient Town Hall Clerk, is the happy first-time grandparent of 7 lb., 9 oz. Meghan Vicki Byrnes born to Ms. Byrnes' son Greg and his wife Stephanie of Sutton. Greg is the news manager for the Worcester Gazette and Telegram.

□ Town Treasurer-Collector Gordon Flint and his wife report their third grandchild Sara Skehan Flint was born in Portland, Maine Sept. 11. Miss Flint weighed in at 7.6 lbs. Her parents are Gordon A. and Patricia Flint who we imagine are delighted also.
